

November 6, 1965

Kirkpatrick Heads City News Bureau

CHICAGO

Clayton Kirkpatrick, managing editor of the Chicago Tribune, has been elected president of the City News Bureau of Chicago, succeeding the late Karin Walsh, who was managing editor/operations at the time of his death Aug. 27.

Richard Hainey, executive editor of Chicago's American, was elected first vicepresident and Jack H. Edmonds, assistant business manager of the Chicago Sun-Times and Daily News, and William F. Caplice, assistant controller of the Chicago Tribune, were elected vice-presidents.

Victor H. Logan, assistant managing editor/operations of the Sun-Times, was chosen to take Mr. Walsh's place as CNB director.